

Guest Seminar

Co-sponsored by the Department of Environmental Sciences & Engineering, American Indian Center, the Department of American Studies, the Curriculum in Peace, War, and Defense, the History Department, the Institute for the Environment, the Carolina Center for the Study of the Middle East and Muslim Civilizations, Carolina Center for Jewish Studies, The Program in Latina/o Studies, and the Carolina Indian Circle.

Land, Natural Resources, and Sovereignty: Lessons from the Cherokee Nation and the Palestinian West Bank

Dr. Marty Matlock (Cherokee)

Professor of Ecological Engineering
Biological and Agricultural Engineering Dept
University of Arkansas - Fayetteville

Tuesday
NOVEMBER 17, 2009
6:00 PM

0001 Blue Cross Blue Shield Auditorium
Michael Hooker Research Center
Gillings School of Global Public Health

Reception to follow in the Hooker Atrium

Dr. Matlock is an author of Swimming Upstream: Collaborative Approaches to Watershed Management (MIT Press, 2005), former president of the American Ecological Engineering Society and current environmental protection commissioner of the Cherokee Nation of Oklahoma as well as a negotiator and facilitator of water disputes between the Palestinian, Israeli, and Jordanian governments on behalf of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (some links below).

<http://www.eoearth.org/contributor/marty.matlock>

<http://mitpress.mit.edu/catalog/item/default.asp?ttype=2&tid=10560>